CrossCode Version 1.0.3-3 has just been released and finally features SPEED LINES!

We recently made the shocking discovery that over all those years, CrossCode's gameplay has been TOO SLOW.

Pictured: Regular CrossCode gameplay that is slow and has pacing issues.

In order to fix this issue, we added SPEED LINES!

Pictured: Improved CrossCode gameplay with speed lines for a faster and superior experience.

We also made a few trees more regular.

For now, the new Hotfix release is only available through Steam.

EDIT:
Happy April Fools' Day!

Yeah, that last update may have overdone it a bit with speed lines.
With today's update speed lines have been reduced to only appear in important combat events (because it's actually cool that way).

If you don't like those speed lines either, you can disable them in the option menu under the Video category.

If you actually miss having speed lines on every move, you can still use the Speedlines bonus code to enable them!

Same for the Regular-Trees.. Moero Chronicle [UPDATE 1.0.13]:
Hi Monster Girl collectors! I know I've been around a lot lately but I'm bringing more good news!

We've added the following fix and improvement with the latest build today 9/26/17:

- Fixed an issue where some monster girls would have incorrect costumes equipped during Bumping Scratch.

Thanks for your patience and feedback! Should other troubles arise, our Iffy's Tech Support subforums are where you can search for tech help. You can also visit our PC form here[www.ideafintl.com] to give us feedback directly.

Hope you enjoy playing!

Cheers!

. V1.047:

- New procedural snakes on the main branch
- Added more options in set resolution screen.
- Can now set proper full screen mode
- Can now choose which monitor to use
- Reduced screen shake. Roundup: 15 days CS2D on Steam!:
